

How to Toss A Cow Chip

Just when you thought your life was complete, don't miss the chance to participate in the First Annual Wheelmen Cow Chip Toss! This game of skill mixed with chance will have medals and trophies awarded in multiple age categories. For those who must ask, a cow chip is a pile of cow poo that is hurled free-style during contests across the West. Good tossers can cast their cow chip more than 150 feet.

Points for tossing success.

1. Embrace the chip, these chips have been air dried for 3 years, have no smell or liquid properties. The cow chip has lots of uses, rich in nitrogen they replenish spent soil and were burned for cooking and heating.
2. Think like a kid, toss that "frisbee". There is no correct way to toss the cow chip. Just let go and see it fly.
3. Stay humble. Yes, being a cow chip champion is a bragging right, but remember everyone has their 15 minutes of fame.
